

WAG Sponsor & Partnership Opportunity Cards - Full Pipeline Review

Status: DRAFT ONLY. Nothing in this document has been sent, contacted, or committed to anyone. Built at Katie's explicit request for full opportunity cards - not a shortlist - so she and the girls can review actual research, not just names, before any decision on outreach.

Last compiled: 2026-08-16. Sources: WAG Brain (Supabase, project wag-brain) tables `revenue_companies`, `revenue_deals`, `revenue_deal_parties`, `revenue_deal_events`, `revenue_approvals`, `revenue_pricing_evidence`, `revenue_opportunity_verification`, `revenue_evidence_sources/links`, `revenue_invoices`; and `WAG_REVENUE_DECISION_INTELLIGENCE.md`, `WAG_REVENUE_PREPARED_INTELLIGENCE.md`, `WAG_REVENUE_RECOVERY_PASS_FINDINGS.md`, `WAG_KIDOODLE_ESCALATION_CARD.md`.

Honesty rules applied throughout, no exceptions:

- No contact's status is upgraded past what the evidence actually supports. Where a name was found but not independently verified as the right person, or no direct email exists, that is stated plainly.
- No budget/value figure is invented. Where WAG's own research explicitly found no defensible number, the field reads UNKNOWN - that is a correct answer, not a gap in the work.
- Every card states its real current pipeline status (`needs_katie`, `qualified_prospect`, `prospect`, `agency_relationship_watch`, `timing_watch`, `closed_lost`, `closed_won`) exactly as it sits in WAG Brain today, not an aspirational one.
- Outreach drafts are specific to each company's real, cited history - never generic template copy.

How to read a card

Field	Meaning
WARM	A real, ongoing two-way conversation already exists (they've replied, asked a question, etc.)
VERIFIED COLD	The company, program, and (where applicable) the named contact/title have been independently confirmed real - but WAG has never contacted them
UNVERIFIED	Real evidence exists but a material fact (the contact's identity, current role, or the paid-program's accessibility) has not cleared WAG's own verification bar yet

SECTION 1 - Agency Relationships (the access-path layer)

These three agencies are the confirmed doors into several of the brand cards below. WAG has never contacted any of them. Each is logged separately because - per Katie's own framing - "one real agency relationship may be worth more than 50 cold brand emails," and because the same agency contact could open multiple future clients, not just the one brand it's paired with here.

1. Movers+Shakers (agency) - contact: Sarah Gerrish

- Brand/company: Movers+Shakers (talent/creator-marketing agency) - not a sponsor itself, the access path to e.l.f. Cosmetics (below) and other clients (Chipotle, Hasbro/Nerf, Mattel/American Girl, Netflix).
- Agency: N/A - this is the agency card.
- Exact contact name: Sarah Gerrish.
- Title/role: Sr. Director, Influencer + Creator Marketing.
- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN - no direct email address was found in this research. Access path would be via Movers+Shakers' general agency contact channel or a LinkedIn approach to Sarah Gerrish directly, not a confirmed personal email.
- How the contact was found/verified: Found in an initial agency-mapping pass (2026-08-12), then independently re-verified on 2026-08-13 specifically because Katie instructed the team not to trust a title at face value. Verification held up: a real, personally-attributed 2026 creator-campaign credit for SharkNinja/Ninja was found quoting her directly by name. Of five named agency contacts checked that day, she is the only one whose match held up as strong.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: VERIFIED COLD.
- Why WAG is a strong fit: Movers+Shakers is explicitly built around Gen Z creator culture and already runs e.l.f.'s Beauty Squad program (see card below) - a direct, evidenced path into a teen-price-point beauty brand actively expanding its creator roster.
- Which WAG property fits: N/A for the agency itself - property fit is determined per client brand (e.l.f. = Main, see below).
- Campaign idea or integration concept: N/A - this card exists to open the relationship, not to pitch a specific campaign.
- Likely budget/value: N/A (agency relationship, not a paid deal itself).
- Previous relationship/contact history: None. WAG has never contacted Movers+Shakers or Sarah Gerrish.
- Current status: agency_relationship_watch in WAG Brain (id 33) - logged as market intelligence, not yet acted on.
- Recommended next action: Katie decides whether to authorize a first outreach to Sarah Gerrish specifically about e.l.f. Cosmetics (the strongest, most evidenced client fit) - a single combined message covering both the agency relationship and the e.l.f. opportunity is more efficient than two separate messages.
- Real caveat, disclosed: Movers+Shakers' documented track record skews TikTok/social-first - no evidence found that Sarah Gerrish personally brokers long-form YouTube or podcast placements. Worth raising directly in any outreach rather than assuming parity with their short-form work.
- Exact outreach draft (combined with e.l.f. Cosmetics - see also Section 2 card below):

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls x e.l.f. - a real fit for Beauty Squad

Hi Sarah,

My name is Katie Swans - I run Wild Adventure Girls (WAG), a teen entertainment brand built around three real teen hosts, on YouTube and our companion podcast.

I've been following Movers+Shakers' work with e.l.f. - the Beauty Squad tiers and the run from #8 to #1 favorite Gen Z beauty brand is genuinely impressive creator strategy, and e.l.f.'s price point ($3-10) lines up exactly with what our audience actually buys.

WAG's format includes real product-testing and first-impressions content, which feels like a natural home for an e.l.f. integration - no forced fit required. I'd love 15 minutes to share our audience data and talk through whether there's a real opportunity here, whether through Beauty Squad or a bespoke arrangement.

Happy to send our media kit first if that's easier.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

2. Vamp (vamp.com) (agency) - contact: Simone Bevan

- Brand/company: Vamp (vamp.com - creator-marketing platform, holds Meta/TikTok/YouTube Creative Partner status). Explicitly not the unrelated UK PR agency wearevamp.co.uk - confirmed as a real, distinct company mix-up risk during research and resolved.
- Agency: N/A - this is the agency card. Access path to Fujifilm Instax (below).
- Exact contact name: Simone Bevan.
- Title/role: Head of Brand and Integration (14+ years in creator marketing).
- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN - no direct email found. Access path would be via Vamp's general business-development channel or LinkedIn.
- How the contact was found/verified: The original researched contact, Caoilfhionn Blaney, was re-checked on 2026-08-13 and found to hold Vamp's Client Delivery Manager role - real, but that role executes campaigns already sold, not the sourcing/strategy function WAG would need for a first conversation. Simone Bevan was found in the same hiring-wave research as the correct, strategy-facing alternative and is the contact this card now points to.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: VERIFIED COLD on the role/seniority match; her direct involvement in the specific Fujifilm Instax activation below was not independently confirmed (the activation itself is confirmed real and Vamp-run).
- Why WAG is a strong fit: Vamp holds formal Meta/TikTok/YouTube Creative Partner status - confirming YouTube is a real, first-class channel for them, not a TikTok-only shop.
- Which WAG property fits: N/A for the agency itself - see Fujifilm Instax card below (Main).
- Campaign idea or integration concept: N/A - access-path card.
- Likely budget/value: N/A.
- Previous relationship/contact history: None.
- Current status: `agency_relationship_watch` in WAG Brain (id 36).
- Recommended next action: Katie decides whether to authorize outreach referencing the real 2026 Fujifilm Instax activation directly - see combined draft in the Fujifilm Instax card below.
- Real caveat, disclosed: Whether Vamp's roster/casting criteria would consider a channel WAG's current size, or skews toward larger creators for activation-scale campaigns, is genuinely unconfirmed.

(Outreach draft combined with the Fujifilm Instax card - see Section 3 below, to avoid duplicating the same message twice.)

3. HireInfluence (agency)

- Brand/company: HireInfluence - access path to Grammarly (below); separately runs a real baby/parenting-brand vertical.
- Agency: N/A - this is the agency card.
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN - no named individual was found at HireInfluence in this research.
- Title/role: N/A.
- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN - no personal contact found; would need to go through HireInfluence's general agency contact channel.
- How the contact was found/verified: Confirmed as Grammarly's real agency of record via a documented, disclosed 6-month campaign (214M impressions, 33.1M views, 130+ creators in the campaign, 38+ tracked ongoing sponsored creators).
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: UNVERIFIED - the agency relationship itself is confirmed real, but no named individual contact exists to verify.
- Why WAG is a strong fit: HireInfluence is the strongest "dual-proof-point" agency found in this pipeline - real AI-brand experience (Grammarly) and real family-brand experience (their baby/parenting vertical) together, a close match to WAG's own profile.
- Which WAG property fits: N/A for the agency itself - see Grammarly card below (Podcast primary).
- Campaign idea or integration concept: N/A.
- Likely budget/value: N/A.
- Previous relationship/contact history: None.
- Current status: `agency_relationship_watch` in WAG Brain (id 38).
- Recommended next action: Katie decides whether to authorize a general-channel outreach to HireInfluence about Grammarly, given the campaign's real back-to-school timing window is open right now (see Grammarly card).

(Outreach draft combined with the Grammarly card below.)

SECTION 2 - Active Opportunities (`needs_katie` in WAG Brain - Katie's decision is the only thing gating outreach)

4. e.l.f. Cosmetics (via Movers+Shakers)

- Brand/company: e.l.f. Cosmetics.
- Agency: Movers+Shakers (confirmed primary creator-marketing agency - see Section 1 card).
- Exact contact name: Sarah Gerrish (via the agency - see Section 1). No contact identified at e.l.f. directly.
- Title/role: Sr. Director, Influencer + Creator Marketing (Movers+Shakers).

- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN direct email - see Section 1.
- How the contact was found/verified: Same verification pass as Section 1 (2026-08-13). e.l.f. is confirmed Movers+Shakers' primary client - credited by the agency's own reporting with taking e.l.f. from #8 to #1 favorite Gen Z beauty brand.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: VERIFIED COLD.
- Why WAG is a strong fit: Direct fit for WAG's real product-testing/unboxing content bucket. e.l.f.'s $3-10 price point matches WAG's actual teen audience's real spending power - not an aspirational-brand stretch.
- Which WAG property fits: WAG Main (product-testing bucket).
- Campaign idea or integration concept: A real product-test/first-impressions video using e.l.f.'s teen-accessible price point - straightforward, no forced narrative required.
- Likely budget/value: UNKNOWN. Real budget scale is suggested by the program's breadth (Super Bowl LX 2026 campaign, tiered Beauty Squad program), but no WAG-specific rate has been confirmed by any source.
- Previous relationship/contact history: None - WAG has never contacted e.l.f. or Movers+Shakers.
- Current status: needs_katie in WAG Brain (revenue_approvals id 12, revenue_companies id 21, watchlist_status = opportunity).
- Recommended next action: Draft and send the combined agency+brand outreach (Section 1's draft) once Katie approves - not a direct pitch to e.l.f. itself.
- Real risk disclosed, evaluated as non-disqualifying (Katie's 2026-08-13 calibration): e.l.f. carries a 2024 EWG asbestos-trace finding (one recalled batch, supplier standards since tightened), a live slack-fill class action (oversized/under-filled packaging), and a separate investor-side securities-fraud suit. None involve minors' data or deceptive health claims, and none are directly relevant to what WAG would demonstrate on camera (a makeup product test) - real, disclosed, not treated as disqualifying for a major, actively-creator-marketing brand.
- Package note: e.l.f.'s own structure (Beauty Squad tiers, continuous product drops) is genuinely built around repeat creator relationships - worth proposing a recurring/quarterly structure once a first deal proves out, not a forced upsell.
- Exact outreach draft: See Section 1's combined draft above.

5. Fujifilm Instax (via Vamp)

- Brand/company: Fujifilm Instax.
- Agency: Vamp (vamp.com - see Section 2 card).
- Exact contact name: Simone Bevan (via the agency - see Section 2).
- Title/role: Head of Brand and Integration (Vamp).
- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN direct email - see Section 2.
- How the contact was found/verified: Confirmed via a real, dated 2026 Vamp-run activation at the "1 Billion Followers Summit" - 50 creators, 150+ pieces of content across Instagram/TikTok/YouTube.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: VERIFIED COLD.
- Why WAG is a strong fit: Genuine dual-bucket fit, not a stretch - Instax cameras work both for WAG's product-testing/challenge content and as a real prop inside WAG's flagship mystery/investigation format (instant "evidence" photos).
- Which WAG property fits: WAG Main.

- Campaign idea or integration concept: Either a photo-challenge game-night video, or - the more distinctive option - an instant-camera "evidence board" prop woven into a real investigation video. The second option is genuinely specific to WAG, not a generic unboxing.
- Likely budget/value: UNKNOWN. A real, agency-run activation budget clearly exists (50-creator campaign scale), but no WAG-specific figure has been confirmed.
- Previous relationship/contact history: None.
- Current status: needs_katie in WAG Brain (revenue_approvals id 13, revenue_companies id 22, watchlist_status = opportunity).
- Recommended next action: Draft outreach to Vamp leading with the investigation "evidence board" creative angle specifically, since it's WAG-distinctive rather than a generic pitch.
- Real risk disclosed, evaluated as non-relevant: Fujifilm is in active trademark litigation with Polaroid over the Instax Square format - a B2B IP dispute between two camera companies with zero relevance to consumer safety, minors, or WAG's reputation.
- Real caveat: Unconfirmed whether Vamp's casting criteria for activation-scale campaigns would consider a channel WAG's current size.
- Exact outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls x Instax - an idea beyond the standard unboxing

Hi Simone,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG) - a teen entertainment brand with three real teen hosts, on YouTube and our companion podcast.

I saw the Instax activation Vamp ran at the 1 Billion Followers Summit this year - really strong creator mix. I wanted to reach out with an idea that's a little different from a standard product unboxing: WAG's most-watched format is real on-location mystery/investigation videos, and an Instax camera as an "instant evidence" prop inside one of those episodes is a genuinely natural fit for our content, not a forced integration. We'd also be glad to do a more standard photo-challenge game-night video if that format serves Fujifilm's goals better.

Would love to share our audience numbers and talk through whether WAG could be a fit for a future Instax activation.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

6. Grammarly (via HireInfluence)

- Brand/company: Grammarly.
- Agency: HireInfluence (see Section 3 card).
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN - no named individual found (see Section 3).
- Title/role: N/A.

- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN - general agency contact channel only.
- How the contact was found/verified: HireInfluence confirmed as Grammarly's real agency of record via a documented, disclosed 6-month campaign (214M impressions, 33.1M views, 130+ creators, 38+ ongoing tracked sponsored creators).
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: UNVERIFIED (agency relationship real; no named contact to verify).
- Why WAG is a strong fit: A real, usable AI writing tool - passed WAG's own safety screen cleanly: no companion/chatbot risk, no litigation, no minors'-data controversy (the exact category of issue that disqualified Pop&Boom/PolyBuzz, see Section 7).
- Which WAG property fits: Podcast primary - a genuine "does AI actually help with schoolwork" conversation fits the format better than a forced Main product demo. Main secondary if a script-editing/creative-writing angle is wanted instead.
- Campaign idea or integration concept: An honest, real conversation about using AI tools for schoolwork, timed to the actual back-to-school moment - not a manufactured tie-in.
- Likely budget/value: UNKNOWN. Real, agency-confirmed budget at meaningful scale (214M impressions) but no WAG-specific dollar figure exists anywhere in the research.
- Previous relationship/contact history: None.
- Current status: needs_katie in WAG Brain (revenue_approvals id 17, revenue_companies id 26, watchlist_status = opportunity).
- Recommended next action: Draft outreach to HireInfluence now, while the back-to-school campaign window is genuinely open - this is real and time-sensitive, not evergreen.
- Real gap disclosed, not hidden: HireInfluence's own campaign explicitly targets 18-34 "students and young professionals," not teens specifically. WAG's actual cast and core audience skew younger than this program's stated target - a real audience-age gap that should be raised directly in the pitch itself, not assumed away.
- Package note: Grammarly's campaign is explicitly timed to back-to-school/midterms/finals every year - a real, predictable recurring buyer need, worth proposing as an annual relationship rather than a one-off from the first conversation.
- Exact outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls - back-to-school AI conversation for Grammarly

Hello,

My name is Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG). We're a teen entertainment brand - three real teen hosts, a YouTube channel and companion podcast - and I'm reaching out because I know HireInfluence runs Grammarly's creator campaigns.

We'd love to put together a real, honest podcast conversation about whether AI writing tools actually help with schoolwork - not a scripted demo, an actual conversation our hosts would have anyway, timed to land while back-to-school is still the live topic it is right now.

One thing I want to raise directly rather than let you find out later: Grammarly's program is built around 18-34 students and young professionals, and WAG's audience skews younger. If that's outside what this specific campaign is looking for, I completely understand - but if there's room for a genuinely younger-skewing voice in the mix, I'd love to talk.

Happy to send our media kit and audience data.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

7. Dutch Bros Coffee

- Brand/company: Dutch Bros Coffee.
- Agency: Originally Amp Agency (ran the real "Passenger Princess Promotion" campaign). Amp merged into "AMP (Advantage Marketing Partners)" in October 2025 - unclear which entity now owns the Dutch Bros relationship.
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN. No named creator-partnerships contact was found at either Amp Agency or AMP post-merger.
- Title/role: N/A.
- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN.
- How the contact was found/verified: Amp Agency's own Shorty Awards entry named real staff roles including "influencer marketing," confirming the agency relationship existed - but this is a single awards-entry confirmation, not proof of an ongoing standing program, and it predates the October 2025 merger.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: UNVERIFIED - this is the weakest access path of any card in this document, and it's labeled that way on purpose.
- Why WAG is a strong fit: Visual drink-customization content is a proven WAG Main-style format. Dutch Bros explicitly targeted Gen Z/Gen Alpha female coffee drinkers in the real "Passenger Princess Promotion" - a direct demographic match, not a generic QSR pitch. Creator count grew 14x (640->9.2K) 2020-2025.
- Which WAG property fits: Combined - Main for a drink-customization video, Podcast for a local-culture/loyalty conversation.
- Campaign idea or integration concept: A drink-customization video paired with a "why do people love Dutch Bros" culture conversation.
- Likely budget/value: UNKNOWN. Real, agency-confirmed budget existed pre-merger; no WAG-specific figure and no confirmation the budget/program survived the corporate restructuring.
- Previous relationship/contact history: None.
- Current status: needs_katie in WAG Brain (revenue_approvals id 16, revenue_companies id 25, watchlist_status = opportunity) - but confidence was explicitly downgraded to moderate-low on 2026-08-13 after the merger/no-contact finding.
- Recommended next action: Per the research's own recommendation, hold this below the other active opportunities pending a named contact - a quick verification pass (confirm current agency name/structure, search for a live creator-partnerships contact at AMP) before drafting outreach, rather than sending blind.
- Real risk disclosed: Dutch Bros' menu includes caffeinated energy-drink items (the "Blue Rebel" line) - any campaign should be steered toward non-caffeinated items, the same category discipline WAG already applies to exclude Prime/Celsius-style products.
- Exact outreach draft - written but flagged as premature per the recommendation above (should not send until a named contact is confirmed):

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls x Dutch Bros - Passenger Princess-style content idea

Hi there,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG), a teen entertainment brand - three real teen hosts, YouTube channel and companion podcast. I'm reaching out because of the real, values-aligned work I saw behind the "Passenger Princess Promotion" campaign - the Gen Z/Gen Alpha targeting is a direct match for WAG's actual audience.

We'd love to build a drink-customization video (Main) paired with a conversation about coffee-shop culture and loyalty (Podcast) - real content our hosts would make anyway, not a forced tie-in. One note upfront: we'd want to build any integration around Dutch Bros' non-caffeinated menu specifically, given our audience's age.

Would love to know who the right person is to talk to about this now that Amp Agency's structure has changed - happy to be pointed in the right direction.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

8. Adobe Firefly / Express

- Brand/company: Adobe (Firefly/Express).
- Agency: None - real, in-house Ambassador Program (relaunched Feb 2025, cash + Creative Cloud membership + points).
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN. No named program contact identified; direct program application is the confirmed real path in.
- Title/role: N/A.
- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN - application is via Adobe's own Ambassador Program portal, not an individual's email.
- How the contact was found/verified: Confirmed via a real, documented paid precedent at a teen-adjacent audience scale - Airrack (18.3M subscribers, general entertainment) did a paid Firefly integration, proof the program works at exactly this content style.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: VERIFIED COLD on the program's reality; UNVERIFIED on whether WAG's current scale matches their typical ambassador tier (Airrack is a much larger channel).
- Why WAG is a strong fit: Real production-relevant fit - WAG's own content-creation process (thumbnails, editing, creative work) is a natural, authentic Firefly use case, not a forced integration.
- Which WAG property fits: WAG Main - a real "we used AI to redesign our own thumbnails/edit" behind-the-scenes video.
- Campaign idea or integration concept: Behind-the-scenes content showing WAG's real creative process enhanced by Firefly - authentic rather than a generic sponsored demo.
- Likely budget/value: UNKNOWN specific figure. Real paid structure confirmed to exist (cash + Creative Cloud membership + gift cards) at a real creator's scale (Airrack), but no WAG-comparable number exists.
- Previous relationship/contact history: None.

- Current status: needs_katie in WAG Brain (revenue_approvals id 18, revenue_companies id 27, watchlist_status = opportunity).
- Recommended next action: Either apply to the Ambassador Program directly, or draft a direct pitch referencing WAG's real production process - either is a reasonable first move; Katie's call on which.
- Real constraint disclosed: Using non-Adobe third-party AI models inside the Firefly ecosystem requires users to be 18+. WAG would need to stay inside Adobe's own first-party models on camera - an easy constraint to honor, not a real obstacle.
- Package note: Adobe's own ambassador model (points/tiers/Creative Cloud membership) is structurally built for sustained relationships - a recurring "created with Firefly" integration across multiple WAG videos would match their program design directly, not invent a new ask.
- Exact outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls - real creative process, real Firefly fit

Hi Adobe Creator Marketing team,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG) - a teen entertainment brand with three real teen hosts on YouTube and a companion podcast.

I wanted to reach out about the Firefly/Express Ambassador Program. We already use tools like this in our own real production workflow - thumbnails, editing, creative concepting - and I think a behind-the-scenes video showing exactly how WAG actually uses Firefly would be more authentic than a scripted demo, and a genuinely good fit for the program.

I saw Airrack's Firefly integration and think WAG's audience and format offer a different, younger-skewing angle on the same real use case. Happy to apply through the standard program, or talk directly if that's a better first step - whichever makes more sense on your end.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

9. Duolingo

- Brand/company: Duolingo.
- Agency: None identified - appears to run creator marketing directly/in-house.
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN, but a real, current hiring signal exists: Duolingo posted a newly created, senior "Head of Influencers & Community" role ($196K-294K) within the last ~60 days of the research (as of 2026-08-13), explicitly building a tiered creator-loyalty program with attribution infrastructure.
- Title/role: N/A (no individual confirmed).
- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN.
- How the contact was found/verified: Confirmed via real, large creator-marketing footprint (39+ currently sponsored creators tracked) and comedic/culturally-timed content strategy.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: UNVERIFIED (no individual contact).

- Why WAG is a strong fit: Duolingo's real style is conversational/bit-driven, which matches WAG Podcast's actual tone better than a straight product-demo video would.
- Which WAG property fits: WAG Podcast.
- Campaign idea or integration concept: A live in-episode Duolingo challenge bit during a Guys Answer Questions or general-talk episode.
- Likely budget/value: UNKNOWN - stated honestly as a genuine unknown, not an estimate. Duolingo's real sponsored-creator roster skews larger-following comedy/lifestyle creators; no comparable data point exists for WAG's audience size.
- Previous relationship/contact history: None.
- Current status: not_yet_ready in WAG Brain (revenue_approvals id 9, revenue_companies id 18) - real research exists, but this was never developed into a full executive card and the approval row was explicitly downgraded 2026-08-13 pending one.
- Recommended next action: Worth a scoping question if Katie wants to pursue - same pattern as the real Aha World/Pop&Boom precedent (ask before quoting), not a cash pitch on first contact. The open "Head of Influencers & Community" role is a real, current, worth-watching signal that Duolingo is actively building infrastructure for exactly this kind of relationship right now.
- Real brand-safety note: Duolingo's mascot humor sometimes leans "unhinged" - worth a tone check before agreeing to a specific bit; not a blocking concern.
- Exact outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls - a Podcast bit idea for Duolingo

Hi Duolingo team,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG) - a teen entertainment brand with a companion podcast built around real, unscripted conversation between three teen hosts.

Duolingo's tone - funny, a little unhinged, culturally plugged-in - is a genuinely good match for our Podcast format specifically (we're less of a fit for a straight product-demo video, more for a real in-episode bit). I'd love to talk about building a live Duolingo challenge segment into one of our episodes.

Happy to share our audience data and a few format examples. Let me know who's the right person to continue this conversation with.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

SECTION 3 - Qualified Prospects (real paid evidence found, not yet at full "ready for outreach" status)

10. Scrub Daddy - contact: Brianna McDevitt

- Brand/company: Scrub Daddy (cleaning sponges).
- Agency: None - in-house influencer marketing function.
- Exact contact name: Brianna McDevitt.
- Title/role: Manager, Influencer Marketing.
- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN - no direct email found; confirmed only via LinkedIn (title/role), so outreach would go through LinkedIn or Scrub Daddy's general partnerships channel.
- How the contact was found/verified: Named and title confirmed via LinkedIn. Independently re-verified as still active in the role via a June 2026 podcast appearance.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: VERIFIED COLD on her identity/role; the commercial program itself is qualified prospect, not fully cleared (see caveats below).
- Why WAG is a strong fit: Product-testing/oddly-satisfying-content is a real, proven subgenre with teen audiences.
- Which WAG property fits: WAG Main.
- Campaign idea or integration concept: A cleaning-challenge/satisfying-content video, directly modeled on the one concrete real example found (see below) - WAG has an actual template to reference in the pitch, not a cold-guess format.
- Likely budget/value: Real, but not directly comparable. A UK creator ("Clean with Bea") ran a disclosed paid "AD" TikTok series with Scrub Daddy spending roughly GBP 12,000 (over half of a ~GBP 20,000 production) - real, disclosed spend. This is not a transactional template for a US YouTube deal (it was a charity-framed collaboration, and that creator's current sponsor list no longer includes Scrub Daddy), so treat as a real data point about the brand's willingness to spend, not a quote.
- Previous relationship/contact history: None.
- Current status: qualified_prospect in WAG Brain (revenue_companies id 29). Real caveat found on re-investigation (2026-08-12), disclosed rather than smoothed over: Scrub Daddy's outbound-scouting model has no visible open application path, the one detailed paid example is charity-framed rather than a repeatable template, and WAG's actual teen-entertainment content is a real stretch against Scrub Daddy's cleaning/home-niche creator base - per WAG's own content-authenticity standard, this is closer to a forced integration than most other cards in this document. It is the closest of the re-checked candidates to qualifying, but does not fully clear the bar.
- Recommended next action: Draft outreach to Brianna McDevitt directly, referencing the real "oddly satisfying cleaning content" format rather than a generic product plug - but Katie should weigh the content-authenticity caveat above before approving.
- Exact outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls - an oddly-satisfying cleaning video idea

Hi Brianna,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG) - a teen entertainment brand with three real teen hosts on YouTube.

I've seen the paid creator work Scrub Daddy has done - the "oddly satisfying" cleaning-content space is a real, proven format with teen audiences, and I think our hosts could do a genuinely fun version of it, not a generic sponsored plug.

Would love 15 minutes to share our audience data and talk through whether there's a fit here.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

11. Gabb Wireless - contact: Dani Strong

- Brand/company: Gabb Wireless (kid/teen-safe phones).
- Agency: None identified - in-house.
- Exact contact name: Dani Strong.
- Title/role: Influencer Manager (role explicitly includes contract negotiation).
- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN - no direct email found.
- How the contact was found/verified: Named contact found in the round-2 discovery pass. Held deliberately at a lower confidence than Scrub Daddy/Chomps - see status note below.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: UNVERIFIED. This is stated honestly, not upgraded: a real, paid "Gabb Ambassador Search" program was found ($10,000 cash plus a one-year contract, a real disclosed figure), but no single documented example of an outside creator actually posting Gabb-sponsored content with a disclosed paid-partnership label was found anywhere in the research - the evidence is organizational (job titles, program/contract language), not an observed real sponsored post.
- Why WAG is a strong fit: Gabb's core product (a kid/teen-safe phone) creates a genuine, non-forced digital-wellbeing conversation angle - directly relevant to WAG's real audience and their parents.
- Which WAG property fits: WAG Podcast.
- Campaign idea or integration concept: A real conversation about phones, safety, and growing up online - the kind of topic WAG's hosts have actual standing to discuss, not a manufactured tie-in.
- Likely budget/value: A real disclosed figure exists for one specific program, not a WAG-comparable rate: the "Gabb Ambassador Search" was structured as $10,000 cash plus a one-year contract. This is real evidence the brand pays for talent relationships, but it describes one specific ambassador-search program, not a confirmed rate for a WAG-scale sponsored video/episode.
- Previous relationship/contact history: None.
- Current status: prospect in WAG Brain (revenue_companies id 30) - explicitly held below Scrub Daddy and Chomps, which were promoted to Qualified Prospect on the same research day; Gabb was not, "pending one more verification pass."
- Recommended next action: Run one more verification pass - specifically, look for an actual observed sponsored Gabb post before treating this as parity with the Qualified Prospect cards. Do not upgrade this status without that evidence, per the standing research discipline.
- Real caution flagged in the research itself: one widely-repeated stat about this brand (a "50% engagement / 12% sales lift" claim) was checked and found to trace to an unsourced, AI-generated content-mill page - explicitly discounted and should not be reused anywhere else in WAG's pipeline.
- Exact outreach draft - written for completeness, but recommend the verification pass above before sending:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls - a real conversation about phones and growing up

Hi Dani,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG) - a teen entertainment brand with a companion podcast, hosted by three real teen girls.

Gabb's whole premise - a phone built for kids without the risks of a full smartphone - is something our actual audience and their parents think about constantly. I think a real, honest podcast conversation about growing up online, not a scripted ad read, could be a genuinely good fit.

I'd love to learn more about Gabb's creator partnerships and see if there's a real opportunity here.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

12. Chomps

- Brand/company: Chomps (grass-fed meat sticks).
- Agency: No single primary agency confirmed; Aspire.io built their real 250+ creator ambassador program.
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN. A posted "Marketing Influencer & Partnerships Manager" role (explicitly tasked with negotiating paid partnerships and managing budget) confirms the function exists, but the specific person is unknown, and the listing itself is roughly 6 months old as of the research (2026-08-13) - likely stale or already filled.
- Title/role: N/A (role confirmed, person unknown).
- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN.
- How the contact was found/verified: Real, substantial evidence: 1,900 tracked sponsored posts over 12 months under a branded hashtag (#chompspartner), including at least one creator with a retainer-style repeat relationship (16 posts over 8 months); a real Aspire.io case study describing the 250+ creator program as outperforming Chomps' own affiliate program.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: UNVERIFIED (no named individual).
- Why WAG is a strong fit: Fits WAG's real product-testing/taste-test content bucket directly.
- Which WAG property fits: WAG Main.
- Campaign idea or integration concept: A real taste-test/reaction video - a proven, well-worn format needing no forcing.
- Likely budget/value: UNKNOWN. Real, standing paid program at meaningful scale (250+ creator network), but no dollar figure disclosed anywhere.
- Previous relationship/contact history: None.
- Current status: `qualified_prospect` in WAG Brain (`revenue_companies` id 28) - real caveat disclosed on re-verification (2026-08-12): the open/accessible track (the "ChompSquad" front door) is commission-affiliate only, not flat-fee paid; the real paid track runs through Aspire's competitive/brief-dependent Creator Marketplace, not a standing open door; and Chomps' creator base skews adult nutrition/fitness, not teen entertainment - a real, if secondary, brand-fit consideration.
- Recommended next action: Investigate the real application path into the Aspire Creator Marketplace / the 250+-creator ambassador network before drafting a cold pitch - this may be closer to a self-serve entry than most other cards here.

- Exact outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls - a real taste-test idea for Chomps

Hi Chomps team,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG) - a teen entertainment brand with three real teen hosts on YouTube.

I've seen the real scale of Chomps' creator program (#chompspartner) and think a genuine taste-test/reaction video is a natural, low-lift fit for our format. I'd love to learn more about how the paid side of the program works, beyond the affiliate front door, and whether there's room for a channel our size.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

13. Minecraft Dungeons II (Mojang)

- Brand/company: Mojang / Minecraft Dungeons II.
- Agency: Managed via impact.com's affiliate/creator infrastructure - Mojang's first-ever formal affiliate/creator program, launched June 2026 ahead of this release.
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN - no individual identified; program appears to run through impact.com's self-serve registration.
- Title/role: N/A.
- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN - registration-based, not an individual contact.
- How the contact was found/verified: Confirmed real, current launch date (Sept 29, 2026) and a real, new staffing/program signal (the June 2026 affiliate program launch specifically timed ahead of this release).
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: VERIFIED COLD on the program's existence; no card has been fully developed yet.
- Why WAG is a strong fit: Minecraft content has broad, evergreen appeal to WAG's actual audience; a real, new game-specific release gives a concrete timing hook.
- Which WAG property fits: WAG Main.
- Campaign idea or integration concept: Not yet developed - this candidate has real evidence but has not been built into a full campaign concept.
- Likely budget/value: UNKNOWN - the program's real structure (affiliate/revenue-share via impact.com) suggests a different economics model than a flat sponsorship fee, similar to the Nintendo Creators Program precedent (see Watchlist, Section 5).
- Previous relationship/contact history: None.
- Current status: `qualified_prospect` in WAG Brain (`revenue_companies` id 32, recheck date flagged 2026-09-15) - no executive card built yet.

- Recommended next action: Register for/investigate the impact.com affiliate program directly ahead of the real Sept 29, 2026 launch - the lowest-friction real next step, and worth revisiting closer to the recheck date.
- Exact outreach draft: Not written - this candidate has not reached executive-card status; a self-serve program registration, not a pitch email, is the real next step.

SECTION 4 - Real, Researched, Not Yet Card-Ready (early-stage but real evidence)

These five have real, disclosed creator-program evidence but were never developed past initial research - no named contact was pursued, no campaign concept finalized. Included here in full because Katie asked for the whole real pipeline, not just the polished cards.

14. Bath & Body Works

- Brand/company: Bath & Body Works.
- Agency: None identified.
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN.
- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN.
- How found/verified: Real, current 10x increase in influencer investment (Q4 2026 earnings commentary); Piper Sandler's April 2025 "Taking Stock with Teens" survey names them #1 fragrance brand among American teens.
- Status flag: UNVERIFIED (no named contact).
- Why WAG fits: Product-testing/haul format matches their real creator style directly.
- Property fit: WAG Main.
- Campaign idea: A blind product-ranking or "guess the scent" video - crosses into WAG's existing games bucket.
- Budget/value: UNKNOWN. Real budget scale suggests a plausible $25K-$45K range based on WAG's own rate card, but no confirmed per-creator deal size at WAG's audience tier exists anywhere - stated as an estimate against WAG's own ask, not a market quote.
- Previous relationship/history: None.
- Current status: `not_yet_ready` in WAG Brain (`revenue_approvals` id 5, downgraded 2026-08-13 pending a real executive card).
- Recommended next action: Worth a scoping question if Katie wants to pursue, same pattern as Aha World.
- Outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls x Bath & Body Works - a "guess the scent" idea

Hi Bath & Body Works team,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG), a teen entertainment brand with three real teen hosts on YouTube. I saw the real investment you've been putting behind creator marketing recently and wanted to reach out directly.

We'd love to build a blind product-ranking/"guess the scent" video with our hosts - a format that fits both our games bucket and your real product breadth. Happy to share our media kit and talk specifics.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

15. Jackbox Games

- Brand/company: Jackbox Games.
- Agency: None - real, active Ambassador Program, 31 currently-sponsored creators.
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN.
- Status flag: UNVERIFIED.
- Why WAG fits: Direct fit for WAG's existing game-night/challenge-video bucket.
- Property fit: Both - Main for a full game-night video, Podcast for an in-episode round.
- Campaign idea: A dedicated game-night video using curated family-safe packs.
- Real, specific brand-safety concern (not glossed over): several Jackbox packs contain adult-humor prompt options - any deal requires WAG to select/curate specific packs and settings before filming, not a blanket "Jackbox sponsorship."
- Budget/value: UNKNOWN. A rough, hedged read from the research: unlikely to clear $45K on WAG's current audience tier - explicitly not a quote.
- Previous relationship/history: None.
- Current status: `not_yet_ready` (`revenue_approvals` id 6).
- Recommended next action: Pending Katie; would need pack curation resolved before any filming commitment regardless of outreach outcome.
- Outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls - a curated Jackbox game-night video

Hi Jackbox team,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG). We're a teen entertainment brand with real hosts and a real game-night content bucket already - Jackbox is a natural fit for it.

One thing I want to be upfront about: we'd want to build the episode around specific, curated packs and settings appropriate for our teen audience, not run the full library as-is. If that works on your end, I'd love to talk about an Ambassador Program fit or a direct sponsorship.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

16. Cricut

- Brand/company: Cricut (craft cutting machines).
- Agency: None - real, structured, paid Content Creator Program.
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN.
- Status flag: UNVERIFIED.
- Why WAG fits: Hobby/craft format is a real, adjacent bucket to WAG's actual content style.
- Property fit: WAG Main.
- Campaign idea: A DIY video tied to WAG's actual content identity - mystery-investigation field-kit stickers/decals, or party-game props - rather than a generic craft video.
- Budget/value: UNKNOWN. Real order-value signals ($188-$400 machines) suggest affiliate/product-based deals more than large flat cash fees - genuinely unconfirmed either way.
- Previous relationship/history: None.
- Current status: not_yet_ready (revenue_approvals id 7).
- Recommended next action: Pending Katie.
- Outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls x Cricut - a mystery field-kit idea

Hi Cricut team,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG), a teen entertainment brand built around real on-location mystery/investigation videos.

Rather than a generic craft tutorial, we'd love to build a video around designing our own investigation field-kit stickers/decals with a Cricut - something that's genuinely us, not a forced integration. Would love to learn more about your Content Creator Program.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

17. Squishmallows (Jazwares)

- Brand/company: Squishmallows (Jazwares).
- Agency: None identified.
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN.
- Status flag: UNVERIFIED.
- Why WAG fits: A real, documented campaign explicitly recruited "Gen Z/Gen Alpha female creators known for girlhood, fun, and female empowerment" - a close, real match to WAG's actual three-teen-girl-host positioning, not a generic toy pitch.

- Property fit: WAG Main.
- Campaign idea: Unboxing/review, or a "design our own creature" creative crossover.
- Budget/value: UNKNOWN. Privately-held, well-resourced company, but their real strategy scales via a creator cohort (multiple creators, moderate individual payouts) rather than single large contracts - a real structural signal against assuming top-tier pricing.
- Previous relationship/history: None.
- Current status: not_yet_ready (revenue_approvals id 8).
- Recommended next action: Pending Katie.
- Outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls x Squishmallows - girlhood, fun, and a creative crossover

Hi Jazwares team,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG). I saw your recent creator campaign built around "girlhood, fun, and female empowerment" - that's genuinely who WAG already is, not a brand we're stretching to fit.

We'd love to talk about an unboxing/review video, or something more creative - our hosts designing their own Squishmallow character. Happy to share our media kit.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

18. Great Wolf Lodge

- Brand/company: Great Wolf Lodge (indoor water-park family resorts).
- Agency: None - real family-influencer program.
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN.
- Status flag: UNVERIFIED.
- Why WAG fits: Real family-influencer program purpose-built for exactly this content style.
- Property fit: Both - Main for a stay + local-legend crossover (a real, on-brand way to blend it with WAG's mystery bucket), Podcast for a family-travel conversation.
- Campaign idea: A stay video that folds in a local-legend/mystery angle tied to the resort's region - genuinely on-brand for WAG rather than a generic travel-vlog format.
- Budget/value: This is trade, not cash - stated plainly, not smoothed over. Great Wolf Lodge's real, documented program is a comped stay plus content rights, not cash compensation. This is not a $25K+ prospect under their standard program; it would need to be negotiated outside it, or accepted as a value-in-kind relationship.
- Previous relationship/history: None.
- Current status: not_yet_ready (revenue_approvals id 10, opportunity_type = trade_partnership).

- Recommended next action: Worth flagging to Katie specifically as a different opportunity type - relationship/reach, not revenue - not sorted alongside the cash-sponsorship candidates above.
- Outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls x Great Wolf Lodge - a stay + local-legend idea

Hi Great Wolf Lodge team,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG), a teen entertainment brand built around real on-location mystery/investigation content.

We'd love to build a stay video that also digs into a local legend or mystery tied to the resort's region - genuinely our format, not a standard travel vlog - paired with a family-travel conversation on our podcast. I understand your program is structured as a comped-stay-plus-content-rights relationship, and we're open to that as a starting point.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

SECTION 5 - Top-5 Ranked Sponsor Targets (full research complete, not yet entered in WAG Brain database)

These five were the first ranked executive cards produced (2026-08-12), built before the corrected contest-vs-paid-partnership standard was applied. All five clear "Qualified Prospect" on real evidence; none has a named contact or a confirmed WAG-scale budget yet, and none has a `revenue_companies` row in the live database - they exist only in the research document. Included here in full per Katie's request for the complete real pipeline.

19. Bubble Skincare

- Brand/company: Bubble Skincare.
- Agency: None identified - real teen-ambassador community runs through Bubble's own Geneva platform.
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN.
- Status flag: UNVERIFIED.
- Why WAG fits: The single best demographic match found in the entire original pass - Bubble's own ambassador program explicitly includes 13-year-olds, closer to WAG's actual cast age than almost any other candidate researched. Skincare-and-self-esteem is a real, existing WAG content thread, not a stretch.
- Property fit: Combined - Main for a real routine/first-impressions video (product-testing bucket), Podcast for a genuine self-esteem/skincare-culture conversation distinct from the Main video.
- Campaign idea: As above.
- Budget/value: UNKNOWN. Real, disclosed first major paid campaign confirmed via Ad Age, but no rate disclosed at any tier.

- Previous relationship/history: None.
- Current status: Research-stage only - not yet a `revenue_companies` row.
- Recommended next action: Route outreach through Bubble's public marketing contact rather than the Geneva community directly (no named contact confirmed). Worth confirming their ambassador program doesn't require exclusivity that could conflict with other WAG sponsors.
- Outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls x Bubble Skincare - routine video + a real conversation

Hi Bubble Skincare team,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG), a teen entertainment brand with three real teen hosts. I've seen how young your ambassador community skews, and it's a genuinely close match to our actual audience and cast age.

We'd love to build a real skincare-routine/first-impressions video on our main channel, and a separate, more personal conversation about self-esteem and skincare culture on our podcast - two different pieces of content, not one repurposed twice. Happy to share our media kit.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

20. Skillshare

- Brand/company: Skillshare.
- Agency: None - broad, real creator-partnership program (2,800+ YouTubers sponsored, 1B+ views in the past year, repeat buys - Linus Tech Tips sponsored 24 times).
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN.
- Status flag: UNVERIFIED, but the program itself is the most consistent, largest real evidence base of any candidate researched.
- Why WAG fits: Skillshare's ad model works at any creator size, removing the single biggest access risk on this list - competing against giant incumbent rosters.
- Property fit: Podcast primary (their own spend skews podcast/long-form), Main secondary.
- Campaign idea: A sponsored Podcast segment framed around something the hosts are plausibly genuinely interested in (video editing, content creation, art), with a trackable promo code - low production lift.
- Budget/value: UNKNOWN specific figure. Real signal they pay creators of varying size; WAG-specific rate unconfirmed.
- Previous relationship/history: None.
- Current status: Research-stage only.
- Recommended next action: Check Skillshare's creator-partnerships page directly for a self-serve/lightly-gated application path before drafting outreach - likely faster than a large agency relationship would be.
- Outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls - Podcast sponsorship inquiry

Hi Skillshare team,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG). We run a companion podcast alongside our main YouTube channel, hosted by three real teen girls, and I think a sponsored segment about video editing or creative skills our hosts are genuinely curious about could be a strong, low-lift fit for your program.

Would love to know if there's a direct application path, or the right person to talk to.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

21. Loop Earplugs

- Brand/company: Loop Earplugs.
- Agency: None - active, explicitly Gen Z-focused creator program (20M+ units sold, ~3,000 sponsored creator posts).
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN.
- Status flag: UNVERIFIED.
- Why WAG fits: The one candidate in this research connecting to an already-existing, authentic WAG content thread rather than a manufactured angle - WAG's real mental-health-adjacent content bucket (overstimulation, self-care, boundaries) is exactly what Loop's messaging is built around.
- Property fit: Combined - Main for a real unbox/wear-test video, Podcast for a genuine conversation about overstimulation/sensory boundaries.
- Budget/value: UNKNOWN.
- Previous relationship/history: None.
- Current status: Research-stage only.
- Recommended next action: A direct conversation about whether Loop sees value in a teen-specific audience - their core demo skews slightly older (18-45) in general marketing, worth confirming rather than assuming yes.
- Outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls x Loop - a real overstimulation conversation

Hi Loop team,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG). Our hosts already talk openly about overstimulation, self-care, and boundaries - it's a real, existing thread in our content, not something we'd be inventing for a sponsor. Loop's messaging lines up with that almost exactly.

I know your core marketing skews a bit older than our audience - I'd love to talk directly about whether there's real value in reaching a teen-specific audience through us.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

22. Bombas

- Brand/company: Bombas.
- Agency: Likely Midroll or a comparable podcast ad network (named in research as running a real Bombas case study) - not confirmed as WAG's actual access point.
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN.
- Status flag: UNVERIFIED.
- Why WAG fits: Not a deep content-thematic fit (socks aren't a WAG content bucket) - but that's precisely why it's a good first Podcast-only proof case: low production lift, proven host-read format, a real mission-driven story that reads naturally in conversation.
- Property fit: Podcast.
- Campaign idea: Standard host-read segment + promo code - deliberately the lowest-complexity pick in this document.
- Budget/value: UNKNOWN. One of the most consistently active host-read podcast advertisers in the market right now (1,315 episodes across 222 real podcasts, most recent buy dated Jul 23, 2026) - real, current activity, no WAG-specific figure.
- Previous relationship/history: None.
- Current status: Research-stage only.
- Recommended next action: Worth being explicit with Katie that this is the "prove the format works" pick, not the highest-upside one. Check whether Midroll or a similar network is the actual access point before a direct pitch.
- Outreach draft:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls - Podcast sponsorship inquiry

Hi Bombas team,

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG), a teen entertainment brand with a companion podcast hosted by three real teen girls.

I've seen how active and consistent your podcast sponsorship program is, and I think a standard host-read segment with a promo code would be a straightforward, low-lift first partnership for us. Would love to know the right way in - direct, or through a network like Midroll.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

23. Chipotle

- Brand/company: Chipotle.
- Agency: Venables Bell & Partners (confirmed real agency of record for Chipotle's "Choices"/"YourPotle" creator/UGC work).
- Exact contact name: Patty Brebner was originally identified (Head of Content, Taproom Studios) but UNCONFIRMED/possibly stale on 2026-08-13 re-verification - conflicting data on her current employer. Do not rely on this name without a fresh check.
- Title/role: N/A (unconfirmed).
- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN.
- How found/verified: Real budget signal confirmed - #LidFlipChallenge with David Dobrik generated 110K+ videos; #GuacDance generated ~430M video starts in 6 days. VB&P confirmed as agency of record.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: UNVERIFIED - the named contact did not hold up on re-verification.
- Why WAG fits: The biggest plausible commercial upside of any candidate in this document - Chipotle has repeatedly spent at scale on exactly the visual-challenge-video format WAG's games bucket already produces.
- Property fit: Combined - Main for a challenge-style video in WAG's existing games format, Podcast for a food-trend/culture conversation.
- Budget/value: UNKNOWN. Largest real budget signal in this document, but no WAG-specific figure exists.
- Previous relationship/history: None.
- Current status: Research-stage only. Real, important finding worth carrying forward: Venables Bell & Partners is Girl Scouts of the USA's actual agency of record - a closer demographic/thematic precedent than Chipotle itself, built explicitly around "girls' courage, confidence and character." Any future VB&P outreach should be framed around that relationship, not Chipotle.
- Recommended next action: Position as an aspirational target to pursue after a smaller proof point (e.g. Bombas or Skillshare) establishes WAG's sponsorship track record - a full-service agency-of-record relationship is a high-effort, longer-lead door for a company WAG's current size, not a quick win. Confirm Patty Brebner's current role (or find a fresh named contact) before any outreach.
- Outreach draft - flagged as premature pending a confirmed contact:

Subject: Wild Adventure Girls x VB&P - Girl Scouts-adjacent storytelling, a Chipotle-scale challenge idea

Hi [contact to be confirmed],

I'm Katie Swans, founder of Wild Adventure Girls (WAG), a teen entertainment brand with three real teen hosts. I know VB&P's work with Girl Scouts of the USA - the "courage, confidence and character" positioning is exactly the audience and tone WAG already lives in, which is actually what prompted me to reach out, more than the Chipotle account did.

We'd love to talk about a Chipotle-style challenge video in our existing games format, paired with a food-culture conversation on our podcast - but honestly, I'd also love to just talk about whether WAG could be a fit for any of VB&P's girls'-audience work more broadly.

Best,
Katie Swans
Wild Adventure Girls

SECTION 6 - Live Relationships (included per Katie's explicit request, for completeness/consistency of format)

24. Kidoodle.TV / A Parent Media Co. Inc.

- Brand/company: Kidoodle.TV / A Parent Media Co. Inc.
- Agency: N/A - direct licensing relationship, not a sponsorship.
- Exact contact name: No current named contact confirmed as the right escalation point beyond a VP of Client Success (name not captured in the recovered evidence). Historical named contact: Leah Lindsay, who moved from a `kidoodle.tv` address to `aparentmedia.com` mid-relationship - a real, tracked example of a person surviving a company change.
- Title/role: VP, Client Success (unnamed in evidence).
- Verified email/contact method: Real correspondence exists in Gmail history; the specific address is not reproduced here per WAG's data-minimization practice - contact would continue via the existing email thread, not a newly sourced address.
- How the contact was found/verified: Recovered directly from `thewildadventuregirls@gmail.com` via a bounded, targeted Gmail recovery search - a real, multi-year licensing relationship since 2021, not new research.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: WARM - this is an active, multi-year, real relationship, not a cold prospect. Note: this is a licensing relationship (WAG's "Into The Wild with The Wild Adventure Girls" series, plus several other shows), not a sponsorship - included here for completeness at Katie's request, not as a new sponsor card.
- Why WAG is a strong fit: N/A - already a live, contracted relationship, not a fit question.
- Which WAG property fits: WAG Main (legacy educational catalog).
- Campaign idea or integration concept: N/A - this is a collections/AR issue, not a new campaign. Katie has twice offered new series (a horse series, and an unspecified new series) as real, live cross-sell opportunities, gated on Kidoodle actually responding to the current outstanding balance first.
- Likely budget/value: Real, exact, and small: three real outstanding quarterly royalty invoices - #5422 ($114.11), #5423 ($115.56), #5424 ($77.09) - total $306.76. Real cumulative relationship value beyond these three invoices was not quantified in this pass.
- Previous relationship/contact history: Real, multi-year (since 2021). A real, repeated slow-payment pattern: Katie followed up in Jun 2025, twice in Jul 2026, and escalated to a VP of Client Success in Aug 2026 after Accounting stayed unresponsive. Katie has directly confirmed (2026-08-15): Kidoodle has not paid, and has ignored her repeated personal follow-ups since the last recorded escalation.
- Current status: `closed_won` deal in WAG Brain (id 1) - i.e., a real, active licensing partner, not a prospect - with an unresolved collections issue. A `revenue_approvals` row (id 1, `action_type = collections_action`) sits at `needs_katie`, unresolved.
- Recommended next action: Per the standing escalation card: send one consolidated, firm follow-up covering all three invoices, the explicit $306.76 total, and a real deadline (e.g., 10 business days) - the lowest-friction path, appropriate given this is a real, valuable multi-year partner and a plausible internal-processing explanation hasn't been ruled out. If that produces no response, escalate above the current VP contact (Leah Lindsay's known move to A Parent Media Co. is a real, relevant lead for a warmer point of contact) or move to formal collections language.
- Real risk disclosed: Sending a firmer message risks the relationship if the real cause is an internal Kidoodle delay rather than refusal to pay. No contract has been independently verified to confirm payment terms, so the draft below deliberately does not cite a specific "overdue by X days" figure.

- Exact outreach draft (already prepared in WAG_KID0ODLE_ESCALATION_CARD.md, reproduced here for completeness):

Subject: WAG Licensing - 3 outstanding invoices ($306.76) - following up

Hi [contact name],

Following up on three outstanding invoices under our licensing agreement - #5422 ($114.11), #5423 ($115.56), and #5424 ($77.09), totaling $306.76. I haven't received a response to my previous messages on these.

Could you confirm payment status on your end, or let me know if there's an issue on our side I should address? I'd appreciate resolution within the next 10 business days.

Thanks,
Katie

25. Aha World

- Brand/company: Aha World Ltd. - a real, currently-live mobile game company, published on both the Apple App Store and Google Play, with multiple active titles (Aha World: Avatar & Family Fun / Aha World: Doll Dress-Up Game, Aha Makeover: Idol Dress Up). Real listed developer entity: iHuman (SG) Pte. Ltd., a Singapore-registered publisher.
- Agency: None - direct inbound.
- Exact contact name: Signs as both "Luna" and "Jason" from the same inbox - a real, disclosed inconsistency, not resolved to one confirmed individual.
- Title/role: UNKNOWN - presumed creator-partnerships contact at Aha World, unconfirmed.
- Verified email/contact method: creators02@ahaworld.com - a real address WAG has already exchanged messages with. What remains genuinely unconfirmed: whether this specific inbox is the real company's actual authorized outreach channel (would need DNS/email-header-level verification, or Katie confirming through a channel outside the email thread itself) - a real gap, not treated as resolved just because the company itself is now confirmed real.
- How the contact was found/verified: Real, live inbound conversation via partners@wagstudios.co, Aug 7-11, 2026: inbound pitch -> Katie sent audience demographics + sponsor one-sheet -> they asked for WAG's rate -> no rate has been sent yet. Independently re-researched 2026-08-15 (web search only, no link in the email clicked, per WAG's standing anti-fraud discipline) - found the real, live company described above. The earlier-flagged non-US WhatsApp country code is now explained by the real Singapore-based publisher, not a scam signal on its own.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: WARM - this is the single most live, real, two-way conversation in WAG's current pipeline. Company legitimacy: upgraded from NEEDS_VERIFICATION toward CONFIRMED-REAL-COMPANY. Sender-inbox authorization: still UNVERIFIED.
- Why WAG is a strong fit: The real, live titles (avatar/dress-up/customization games) are a genuinely well-matched category to WAG's teen-girl audience - a real positive brand-fit signal beyond just legitimacy.
- Which WAG property fits: WAG Main (all real correspondence has been about YouTube/TikTok/Instagram content; no Podcast component has been discussed).

- Campaign idea or integration concept: Not yet determined - Aha World has never specified deliverables, platform, or timeline, so no honest campaign concept can be proposed yet.
- Likely budget/value: UNKNOWN. Aha World has not disclosed a budget; they are the party who asked WAG for a rate, not the reverse - no comparable prior deal exists to anchor a number.
- Previous relationship/contact history: Real, ongoing since Aug 7, 2026. No rate quoted, no deal closed, nothing declined.
- Current status: `needs_katie_review` deal status in WAG Brain (deal id 3); `revenue_approvals` id 3 (`action_type` = `pursue_opportunity`) sits at `needs_katie`, unresolved. Anti-fraud classification: NEEDS VERIFICATION (per `revenue_opportunity_verification` id 3) - not yet upgraded in the database itself even though the standalone company-identity check above found real supporting evidence.
- Recommended next action: The real blocker was never actually pricing - it's that Aha World never specified deliverables, platform, or timeline, so nothing can be honestly priced yet. A scoping reply is the correct next step, not a rate quote - Katie decides whether to authorize the scoping reply below (with the sender name confirmed before sending, given the observed Luna/Jason inconsistency), or to decline pursuing this further.
- Exact outreach draft (already prepared in `WAG_REVENUE_RECOVERY_PASS_FINDINGS.md` Section 14b, reproduced here for completeness):

Subject: Re: Partnership Opportunity - WAG

Hi [Luna/Jason - name to confirm before sending, given the observed inconsistency],

Thanks for your interest in working with Wild Adventure Girls! Before I can put together the right package for you, I'd love a bit more detail:

- What are you picturing for the collaboration - a single video, a series, social-only content, or something else?
- Which platform(s) - YouTube, Instagram, TikTok, or a mix?
- Any specific timeline you're working toward?
- Is there a budget range you're working within, so I can make sure what I put together actually fits?

Once I have those details I can send over some options that make sense for both of us.

Best,
Katie

SECTION 7 - Resolved / Historical (real pipeline history, no active outreach needed)

26. Pop&Boom (agency) / PolyBuzz (brand) - CLOSED, DECLINED BY WAG

- Brand/company: PolyBuzz - an AI companion/chatbot app (40M+ downloads claimed).
- Agency: Pop&Boom, a self-described "KOL agency," contact Alex Zhang (alexzhang@popboomlab.com).
- Exact contact name: Alex Zhang.
- Title/role: Not specified in evidence, presumed a creator-partnerships/BD role at Pop&Boom.
- Verified email/contact method: alexzhang@popboomlab.com - real, confirmed, WAG has already corresponded with this address across 16 real messages.
- How the contact was found/verified: Real, cold inbound Jul 15, 2026, recovered via a targeted Gmail search after Katie flagged the deal had been missed by an earlier bounded search pass.
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: Was WARM - a real, coherent, multi-week negotiation. Deal is now CLOSED.
- Why WAG is/was a strong fit: It wasn't - PolyBuzz is 18+ rated, targets 18-24 year-olds, and requires anyone appearing on camera to be at least 18. This directly conflicts with WAG's family/teen cast and audience.
- Which WAG property fits: WAG Main was the real scope discussed (YouTube, TikTok, Instagram; no Podcast component).
- Campaign idea or integration concept: N/A - never reached creative concepting; the disqualifying fact surfaced before that stage.
- Likely budget/value: Real evidence exists but the specific dollar figures were never typed into the email thread - WAG's real rate sheet (WAG_Partnership_Options.pdf) was sent and never contested (no reaction, positive or negative, appears anywhere in the thread). WAG's own current rate card: Social Campaign $25K / Signature YouTube Partnership $45K / Signature+Social $65K / Premium Story Integration from $75K.
- Previous relationship/contact history: Full real timeline: cold inbound -> Katie's standard scoping questions -> real client/product (PolyBuzz) revealed only after Katie asked directly -> WAG's real rate sheet sent and confirmed attached (Jul 25, 2026) -> Katie's own proactive brand-safety question -> Pop&Boom confirmed the disqualifying facts -> Katie declined, Aug 1, 2026, on brand/audience-fit grounds ("Given WAG's family audience, I don't think this particular campaign is the right fit for us") -> amicable close, Aug 2, 2026. Price was never raised as an objection by either party.
- Current status: closed_lost in WAG Brain (deal id 4), outcome_reason = product_inappropriate_for_wag, declined_by = wag. This is WAG's first fully evidence-based Revenue Outcome Reasoning Standard case.
- Recommended next action: None for PolyBuzz - correctly closed. Pop&Boom the agency is a real, separate, live re-engagement candidate: they explicitly expressed interest in staying in touch for future, better-fitting campaigns. Worth keeping Alex Zhang/Pop&Boom on file for a future, age-appropriate client they may represent - not a current action item.
- Exact outreach draft: None needed - nothing further to send on this deal. Included here purely for pipeline-history completeness, per Katie's request.

27. GoPro - reclassified: relationship-building lead, not a paid sponsorship

- Brand/company: GoPro.
- Agency: None - direct, real "Grom Quest" / GoPro Awards creator program.
- Exact contact name: UNKNOWN - the program is submission-based, not individual-contact-based.

- Verified email/contact method: UNKNOWN - submission via the GoPro Awards platform, not an email relationship.
- How the contact was found/verified: Real, current, publicly documented program allowing participants aged 13-17 with guardian consent - verified directly against WAG's real disqualifying-issue history (this is the one candidate found that structurally solves the exact problem that killed the Pop&Boom deal: an 18+ on-camera-talent requirement).
- WARM / VERIFIED COLD / UNVERIFIED: VERIFIED COLD on the program's reality and age-eligibility.
- Why WAG is a strong fit: GoPro's real POV/action content style maps directly onto WAG's actual flagship format - real-location mystery/cryptid investigations - not a forced fit.
- Which WAG property fits: WAG Main.
- Campaign idea or integration concept: A real investigation video shot partly in GoPro POV during an actual location visit, submitted through GoPro Awards.
- Likely budget/value: This is explicitly NOT a cash-sponsorship case. GoPro Awards is submission-based (gear/cash prizes tied to submissions, not a guaranteed flat sponsorship fee). Correction, applied per Katie's explicit instruction (2026-08-12): this is a contest/creator-award program, not a paid partnership, and should not be ranked alongside real paid-sponsorship prospects. It is real, brand-safe, and worth keeping on record as a low-cost relationship-building move - not as a revenue opportunity.
- Previous relationship/contact history: None - no submission made, no contact attempted.
- Current status: `qualified_prospect` in WAG Brain (`revenue_companies` id 13); `revenue_approvals` id 4 carries `opportunity_type = contest_relationship_building`, explicitly separated from paid-partnership approvals.
- Recommended next action: If Katie wants to pursue this at all, it's a real, lower-cost/no-cost relationship-building move (gear + Awards submission), not a cash-sponsorship pitch - genuinely different in kind from every other card in this document, and should be evaluated as such, not compared directly against them.
- Exact outreach draft: Not applicable - there's no individual to pitch. If Katie approves, the next action is a direct submission to GoPro Awards, not an email.

SECTION 8 - Watchlist: Real Activity Found, No Currently Accessible Paid Pathway

These four are real, currently-active brand/creator ecosystems - but WAG's own verification process found no accessible paid route in at WAG's current scale, and building a full outreach card (with a fabricated campaign pitch to a door that doesn't exist) would violate the no-invented-opportunity standard. Each is logged honestly as a real, dated watchlist item instead.

- Hello Kitty Island Adventure (Sunblink, published under Sanrio license). Real, currently-active "Creator Calendars" program (since July 2026) - but it is invitation-only, for creators already embedded in the HKIA fan community since 2023, compensated in in-game cosmetics only, no cash, no application path. Downgraded to `timing_watch`. If WAG wants to pursue this, the honest next step is a real outbound pitch to Sunblink and/or Sanrio's brand-licensing team - not an assumption that an accessible paid program already exists.
- Nintendo Creators Program. The real 70/30-split "Nintendo Creators Program" that made this candidate attractive was discontinued in December 2018 - it is not a live 2026 pathway. Current Nintendo creator marketing in 2026 is a small, invitation-only roster of mega-scale "official partners," brokered via agencies, with no public application path. An earlier claim that creator casting was "underway since July 2026" for Switch Sports Resort was checked and found to have no findable primary source - struck from the record rather than repeated. Downgraded to `timing_watch`; the real

Oct 22, 2026 Switch Sports Resort launch itself is confirmed, but establishes only that the game exists, not a WAG-accessible campaign.

- Exploding Kittens. A prior claim of "a real named 35-influencer paid campaign, Oct 2025" was investigated and found to be fabricated - a conflation of two real, separate, unrelated facts (a real one-off 2020 cause-marketing campaign with Best Friends Animal Society, payment status never confirmed; and a real, separate 2025 anniversary product launch with no creator campaign attached). No current (2026) active paid creator program was found; the affiliate program that once existed appears defunct. Real brand-safety flag for the record: Exploding Kittens sells a separate 18+ "NSFW Edition" under the same brand name, which must be excluded from any future consideration. Status: prospect, not qualified.
- Sanrio Games / Hello Kitty Party Land. Confirmed Oct 29, 2026 launch - real and dated - but no title-specific creator program exists yet. It inherits Sanrio's real, high-volume influencer infrastructure generally. timing_watch, recheck date 2026-10-01 - a real, scheduled follow-up, not an open-ended maybe.

Recommended handling for all four: no outreach, no card. Recheck each on its stated date/trigger rather than treating "real brand" as equivalent to "real accessible opportunity."

SECTION 9 - Explicitly Researched and Rejected (real, disqualifying evidence - not part of the live pipeline)

Included briefly, not as full cards, so the record shows what was checked and why it's excluded rather than silently dropped: Poppi and Olipop (active/finalized class actions over false health claims), BetterHelp (finalized FTC enforcement for sharing minors-adjacent users' mental-health data with ad platforms), Aerie (18+-only ambassador program, same pattern as parent American Eagle), Roblox (170+ active lawsuits and a federal MDL alleging facilitation of child grooming), Character.AI, Replika, Meta AI companion feature, and Snapchat My AI (each carrying real, documented minor-safety incidents in their AI-companion features). None of these should be revisited without a materially new fact pattern.

What this document deliberately does not include

Licensing buyers (Kanopy, Kidjo, HappyKids.tv, Boclips, ClickView, Scholastic, National Geographic Books, pocket.watch, Anuvu, Filmhub, and the second-tier candidates) are a real, separate, already-researched pipeline - but they are licensing-catalog buyers for WAG's legacy educational content, not sponsorship prospects, and don't fit this card format's fields (agency/campaign-idea/outreach-draft) cleanly. Full detail lives in `WAG_REVENUE_DECISION_INTELLIGENCE.md` Section 4 and `WAG_REVENUE_PREPARED_INTELLIGENCE.md` Section 4 if Katie wants a parallel set of licensing cards built the same way.

Epic! is WAG's other live licensing relationship (real, ~10-year, $345/video, $50,025 cumulative) - not included as a card because it is not a sponsorship prospect and nothing about it is currently actionable or in question.

Nothing in this document has been sent. Every draft above is exactly that - a draft, written to be specific and honest about what's real and what isn't, waiting on Katie's review before a single message goes out.